& OTHER CLASSIFIED ADS.

THE TOPEKA STATE JOURNAL guarantees, every day it is printed, to give a local circulation more than double that of any other paper, and by far more than all other local papers combined. This makes this paper the cheapest, as well as the best daily advertising medium in Topeka, the classified advertisements being below cost.

FIVE CENTS A LINE, or 20 cents a line for a week; 50 cents by the month.
City circulation everyday exceeds 5,000—total circulation over 5,000.
Sworn detailed statements of circulation presented on application.
EST. 1884. And see any afternoon between 4 and 5, the handsomest, latest, most perfect place of printing machinery in Kansas—a Web Press, long press, which prints from two to three complete 8-page papers a second.

SITUATIONS WANTED—FREE.

Are you in need of work? If so, you are at liberty to use our columns for assistance in that direction. While this notice appears the STATE JOURNAL, will publish free on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, for Topeka or Kansas people, all notices of "Situations Wanted," not exceeding five lines, or thirty-five words, in length. Provided that all advertisements of this nature are handed in previous to ten o'clock Saturday morning, also Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, all advertising of this class handed in by ten o'clock Wednesday morning.
No advertisements of this nature to be started except on Saturdays and Wednesdays. No obligation is incurred on the part of the advertiser. No worthy and steady man or woman need hesitate to take advantage of this offer. No one is to be hired or employed, or to be expected to take advantage of it, but all others invited to avail themselves freely.

LOOKED EVERYWHERE ELSE.

St. Louis Detectives Chased a Murderer Who Had Never Left His Home.

The chiefs of police of the United States have a good joke on Larry Harrigan, the well-known chief of the St. Louis police. The chiefs about fifty of them, met in convention in St. Louis and the first day that they were in session, a man murdered his wife in a room just across the street from the Four Courts, where the chiefs were assembled. The murderer was a well-known character, and Major Harrigan is said to have made a little boast to the visiting chiefs that he would have the murderer in custody before the night. So he ordered out a special detail of fifty of his best detectives and patrolmen, in citizens' clothes, and told them the man had to be caught. They went to work with a will, guarded depots, searched trains, hid in dark alleys, and all that, but got no trace of the man wanted. Next day a revolver shot rang out from the house where the woman had been killed. A policeman rushed in and found that the murderer had committed suicide in the very room in which he had cut his wife's throat. On the floor was this note:

"What is the matter with St. Louis, detective and police force? I haven't been outside of this house."
"Investigation showed that after killing the woman the husband had gone up stairs. After her body had been carried out he returned to the room and tried to cut an artery in his wrist. Failing in this he sat down and waited for the detectives to come and get him. After waiting twelve or fourteen hours he became tired, and, searching his wife's trunk, found a pistol and shot himself. Major Harrigan certainly has a great reputation as a capturer of train robbers, but he missed when he undertook to show the visiting chiefs of police how to catch a red-handed murderer.
